

Competition Law

While competition law is a relatively new creation in the jurisdiction of Hong Kong, in step with the evolving legal landscape, we offer legal advice on various aspects of competition law and during different phases of a competition investigation. As our clients include private and investment banks, financial institutions and other commercial bodies, we will be able to guide such clients through this period of transition and to provide assistance and support concerning business transactions, investigations by the Competition Commission and actions brought before the Competition Tribunal.
